Product description

The rectangular RIVA table by the design duo Schweiger & Viererbl offers ample space and storage. Due to the linear design, this can be individually and flexibly integrated into the living space and complemented by the matching RIVA benches. Whether dining table or desk - combined with some decoration or deliberately reduced - this design classic from Conmoto sets skilful accents. Ideal in combination with the RIVA benches and the optional seat cushions, not only one person can sit comfortably, but a whole family. Available in two sizes and the colors white and anthracite.

All canopies can be regulated at the bottom with a drawstring to keep them fixed even in windy conditions. They are made of weather-resistant, breathable polyamide, UV-stabilized and frost-resistant. At the same time, the covers are soft yet strong as well as stretchy, making them easy to fold. The seams are welded and therefore waterproof. All covers are washable up to 30 °C.

Conmoto design furniture

In reference to a measure of time used by composers, "conmoto" describes the tempo of a musical movement and means "in motion". It transports the claim to the dynamics and development of the company, which is aptly reflected in the company claim Soundful Living.

Johannes Wagner founded conmoto in 1997. His first product: stainless steel fireplace cutlery. His goal was to offer cutlery that was both functional and beautiful.

The assortment and the field of activity of conmoto has expanded considerably in the last 20 years. Not only has conmoto expanded its collaboration with renowned designers and produces the highest-quality designer furniture for indoor and outdoor use, for several years the company has also been active in the project sector, developing holistic room concepts for major clients ranging from The Ritz Carlton to Rolls Royce and Borussia Mönchengladbach. Since 2019, the company owns its own manufactory near Münster in which a large proportion of its own products are manufactured.

Johannes Wagner - founder and managing director of conmoto - has always remained true to his goal and philosophy of combining functionality with beauty.

Conmoto stands for timeless designs and the highest quality - from the materials used to the workmanship.
